

Office Moves

Town & Country Moving and Storage understands that in business, "time is money". That is why our consultants and crews are specially trained in all aspects of office relocation.

From beginning to end, our team of movers and consultants will work with your project coordinator to ensure that your relocation has as minimal effect on your company's productivity as possible. Pre-move planning meetings will efficiently and effectively organize your move, and educate your employees on what needs to be done in advance to prepare for your office move. Through proper planning, we will attend to all of the small details which are imperative to a smooth relocation, such as computer and telephone handling procedures, employee responsibilities, and placement of furniture at your new location.

It is our goal to make sure that every opportunity is taken to make your office relocation a complete success. We can help get you back in business in no time!
